Mylan Wins Motion for Temporary Restraining Order Against Apotex for Authorized Generic of Paxil® CR

District Court Judge Orders Apotex to Immediately Recall the Authorized Generic from its Direct Customers and to Stop Selling and Supplying the Product

PITTSBURGH, July 23, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- Mylan Inc. (Nasdaq: MYL) today announced that the U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey granted its motion for a temporary restraining order against Apotex Inc. and Apotex Corporation in litigation relating to Paroxetine CR, the authorized generic of GlaxoSmithKline's Paxil® CR. The District Court ordered Apotex to immediately discontinue all sales and supply of Paroxetine CR. Mylan previously obtained an order enjoining GlaxoSmithKline from supplying Paroxetine CR to Apotex.

In addition, the District Court ordered Apotex to immediately recall all product from its direct customers that was shipped since the injunction was entered on July 16, 2014.

Mylan has an exclusive license to an Orange Book patent pertaining to Paxil CR which expires in July 2016, with pediatric exclusivity extending until Jan. 19, 2017. Mylan further believes that it is the only company to have filed an abbreviated new drug application for generic Paxil CR that contains a paragraph IV certification.
